What services are provided?

PDA supports insurance carriers with the management of their disability claims by providing claim examiner, clinical, and vocational resources. Learn more

Navigating the SSDI application process can be challenging and frustrating for individuals who are already struggling with their health and are unable to work. The Advocator Group has extensive experience with this process and has helped over 150,000 individuals apply for SSDI benefits. Utilizing advocacy services from an experienced professional greatly increases the likelihood that an individual will receive a fast and favorable decision.

Why is this work important?

Both disability insurance carriers and their customers benefit from external support, whether it's PDA providing additional examiners to manage an influx of claims or offering professional expertise to help an insurance carrier understand a complicated case. In either scenario, and in many others that may arise throughout the disability insurance process, PDA provides the necessary support to get a claim determination completed quickly and accurately.
